The directors of the company have not yet decided definitely on the plans for the new plant and it is likely that the eastern trip of the manager has to do with these plans and with the equipment of the lighting system.

Seen at Cement Show—Ralph E. Bristol, manager of the Ogden Portland Cement company, has returned to this city after attending the semi-annual cement show in Chicago. Mr. Bristol was much impressed with the many improvements which have been made in the cement industry during the past six months. The very latest innovation in the cement line is a pneumatic cement sprayer, which, Mr. Bristol says, can be used for sprinkling fences or buildings of any kind with a liquid cement. All kind of out-buildings or frame structures can be treated very cheaply in this manner and their life and usefulness greatly prolonged.

CHANGE OF PROGRAM PHOTOPLAY THEATRES

If the Photoplay theatres can keep their pictures up to the standard of those shown the past week they will be serving the public with excellent entertainment for a very small price and from the selection of pictures they have made for this week we believe their entertainment will be good. In the Oracle they have a short picture showing the Chilian Troops in review and it also shows that Chili has a most effective army. A picture that will be of exceptional interest to the children, "The Survival of the Fittest," is a dramatic romance of the circus and introduces Selig's great collection of wild beasts. One of the biggest laughs in many moons is the Essanay comedy, "Getting Sister Married." You'll laugh about this for days to come. No matter how homely the exterior, a pure soul will not light up a personality that the plain personal appearance will be obliterated in its radiance. So it is shown in the beautiful Biograph subject, "Fisher Folks," the feature picture at the Oracle. The subject also comprises a series of beautiful scenes taken at Santa Monica, California. In the days of long ago where the heart directed the cavalier for of his way, no matter what the obstacle, is the story told in another beautiful Biograph picture at the Isis in "Heart Beats of Long Ago." Other good pictures at the Isis is an Essanay Western drama with pleasing vein of fun, "The Bad Man's Downfall." The Essanay company are well known for the excellence of their Western pictures, especially their dashing, reckless riding. "Schultz and the Snail" is a comedy that will make you feel good for days.

We will mention only one picture at the Globe that is a part of their excellent program, "The Doctor." No picture of a type such as this can pass before the eye of the gazer without a pull at the heart chord. It is one of those simple heart stories that lift one to better things in life. The production throughout is most artistic; one of the last scenes being a reproduction of the world famous painting, "The Doctor" which is now on exhibition at the Tate Art Gallery in London.

At the ladies' Souvenir Matinee, Oracle and Globe, Wednesday and Isis Thursday will be given away to ladies one beautiful imported Venetian glass with the purchase of TWO 10 cent tickets for ladies. Those holding a coupon from last week may use that with one additional ticket and receive a glass. This ware is imported Venetian and very fine, and too expensive to give one with each ticket.

Oracle and Globe Wednesday—Isis Thursday afternoon.

DOPE FIEND ROBS DOCTOR'S OFFICE

His uncontrollable appetite for drugs led a dope fiend to enter the office of Dr. R. E. Worrell in the Stevens building yesterday afternoon, and while the culprit was discovered by the physician, he nevertheless escaped with a quantity of cocaine and morphine.

The man had been seen hanging around the doctor's office for several days and it is supposed that he slipped into the room while Dr. Worrell was absent for a few minutes yesterday. Shortly after the physician had occasion to move a bed in an adjoining room, and he was surprised when he moved the end of the bed that the other glided off in an opposite direction.

He investigated and found the intruder concealed under the bed. Without ascertaining whether the man had taken anything Dr. Worrell allowed him to go, and later decided to have him arrested. It was not until after a police officer arrived that the doctor discovered there were missing a 60-grain bottle of morphine, a bottle containing 40 drops of cocaine solution and a box of elgars.

The police have not been able to secure a trace of the robber.

JUDGE DEMANDS INVESTIGATION

Denver, Feb. 27.—Judge Greeley, W. Whitford, of the district court, who has gained national fame by his recent sentence of striking miners to prison for contempt of court, which resulted in several threats being made on his life, appeared in the criminal division of the court today and demanded that a grand jury investigation be made of the charges that he had accepted a bribe.

The bribery charge was made Saturday by a witness before the legislative committee.

Mrs. Margaret Miller, who was recently released from the state penitentiary, testified before a legislative committee that she had handed Judge Whitford $5,000 which had been given to her by the Mine Owners' association.

Judge Whitford demands an immediate investigation of the charges by a grand jury.

"If there is any truth," he told the court, "I should be in the penitentiary."

Judge Miles of the criminal court took the matter under advisement.

HE WAS ON ALL SIDES OF CASE

The litigants failing to agree to a settlement Saturday afternoon, the hearing in the case of C. R. Hollingsworth against the Salt Lake & Ogden Railway company was resumed this morning in the civil division of the district court.

The plaintiff continued to detail the services given the defendant company during the time for which remuneration is being sought. Mr. Hollingsworth stated that item 24 embraced services given in 1906, consisting of considerable correspondence with Mrs. E. R. Adams of New York, regarding the purchase of a certain tract of land west of the Weber river, and over which the defendant company desired to build its railroad. The land is situated on the Sand Ridge and embraces about three acres of dry land.

The witness stated that he endeavored to purchase the property at $49 an acre, but the lady refused the terms offered and it became necessary for him, in behalf of the company, to begin condemnation proceedings in the court, which he did. The attorney said that after the suit had been filed, Mrs. Adams wrote him that she would accept $40 an acre and that he then withdrew the suit and closed the deal with her. For this service the plaintiff claims the company should pay him at least $100.

Item 25 of the bill of particulars covers the transaction with the Herbert M. Bradley estate of New York which necessitated friendly examination proceedings and the probating of the will of the deceased. In this case the attorney for the Bamberger people acted in a dual capacity, as attorneys for the plaintiff claiming that it was done under an agreement between the parties.

The defendant company wanted a right-of-way over the Bradley property, said the witness, and in order to secure the same the will had to be admitted to probate and a settlement of the estate had in the courts. A correspondence was entered into between the plaintiff and an attorney for the Bradley estate in Buffalo, New York, an agreement being reached as to the purchase price of the right-of-way.

It was determined that the will should be admitted to probate and that James Plingree in this city should act as executor. Mr. Hollingsworth also represented Mr. Plingree in this matter and, he said, he also prepared the papers in the proceedings before the probate court, forwarding them to the defendant company's attorneys in Salt Lake for approval. The witness also attended to other legal matters for the company regarding the securing of the right-of-way over the coveted grounds on the Sand Ridge. It necessitated a lengthy correspondence with different parties here and in the east. There was an entanglement in the title to the property sought and it took much time to unravel it. Mr. Hollingsworth said that he examined the abstract of title and investigated in all legal directions where additional information respecting the rights of different parties concerned could be found.

At the conclusion of the condemnation proceedings against Plingree, the executor, the witness said he drew the findings of fact and conclusions of law, wrote the decree settling the estate, and also, vesting the title of the land in question in the defendant company. For this service the plaintiff claims he should be paid $100.

At the conclusion of the testimony regarding item 25, the attorney for the defendant company asked that it be stricken from the record on the grounds that the plaintiff had acted in a dual capacity and already had been paid a fee for his services by the Bradley estate and that he should not be paid twice for the same service.

The motion was granted, the court stating that he had made an order for the payment of attorney fees to Mr. Hollingsworth in the Bradley estate and that he had accepted improper fee for the defendant company. It was made to pay a similar fee for the same service.

Item 26, was taken up this afternoon, the witness stating that the service enumerated in the item had to do with the securing of a right-of-way over property belonging to Mrs. Mary E. True on Pacific avenue. The company could not agree with Mrs. True as to the value of her property. Mr. Hollingsworth said, and condemnation proceedings were instituted. At a later date, however, the witness said, an agreement was had and the suit dismissed. This transaction, with others to be enumerated, covered over six months' time.

COLLEGES ARE TO HAVE BOXING

New York, Feb. 27.—The formation of an intercollegiate boxing league is proposed at Columbia university. Interest there has been stimulated in this branch of sport by the work of W. H. Grassi, a senior. Grassi is a general all-round athlete. While abroad he studied boxing and became proficient in the art, so that when last week C. W. Wooten, the boxing instructor, left to go abroad, Grassi offered his services. Grassi believes that the installation of an intercollegiate boxing league would mean its establishment as a regular branch of college athletics.

FULL PRODUCTION OF THE GREAT HISTORICAL PLAY

"ZALMONA"

GERTRUDE ELLIOTT

IN "THE DAWN OF A TOMORROW" AT THE OGDEN THEATRE, THURSDAY, MARCH 2ND.

Coming direct from her Chicago engagement which was one of the big happenings of the present theatrical year in that city, Miss Gertrude Elliott will bring "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" to the Ogden Theatre for Thursday evening, March 2nd. Both critics and audiences vied with one another the last few weeks in lavishing words of praise upon the brilliant young actress who seems destined to occupy at no distant date the foremost position among American actresses. Miss Elliott has exceedingly much in her favor. She has beauty of an uncommon order, a voice that is wonderfully charming and a personality which passes without effort the division lines between stage and auditorium. She moves her audiences not at her will but seemingly in unison with her every shade of feeling and expression. She has made the character of Glad, the London street waif, in Mrs. Burnett's play, one of the most striking of all stage creations with recent years. The hearty love of life, the courage under adversity, the longing after better things, the belief in ultimate good, the faith in a power that comes from outside, all unite in making Glad as interpreted by Miss Elliott, a character so strong that it actually assumes breathing and life. Mrs. Elliott's story, of course, is more or less familiar to the great body of the reading public and theatre-goers. She preaches the creed of cheerfulness and optimism. The scenes of "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" are laid in London, and its characters are typical of the White-chapel district and the dialect with which Albert Chevalier has made the American amusement goer familiar. But for that matter "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" could be localized in New York, Chicago or any other large city which has its percentage of the poor, the unfortunate and the illiterate. Nevertheless, it is a great story and Miss Elliott is its voice which rings from the wilderness of poverty, ignorance and vice. Liebler & Co. under whose management Miss Elliott is appearing have given her a supporting company of exceptional strength and a stage setting of beautiful effect. Seats Wednesday 10 a. m.

REJOICING AT CLINTON FRIDAY

A grand social entertainment, including banquet was given by the people of Clinton Friday, Feb. 24, the occasion being the formal opening of the Clinton Ward meeting house, which is nearly enough completed to be used.

The house and furnishings cost about $15,000, and is a most substantial brick building with numerous apartments in the basement for class work. It is a credit to any community, and a building that the people with their bishop O. D. Hadlock may well be proud of. The work and the material are of the best.

The architects and contractors who were present were pleased to hear the expressions of satisfaction with their work.

The Y. M. C. A. association, with Leo W. Child as president, composed the committee on social entertainment; the Relief society with Esther M. Hadlock as president, prepared and supervised the banquet.

The morning exercises, which began at 10:30, consisted of singing by the choir, with Mrs. May Bonham as organist; solos and recitations and music by the Clinton orchestra.

At noon the people gathered in the basement where plates were laid for 100 people at one time. These tables were filled four times, and one splendid feature of good management was the serving of about 250 children, in rooms by themselves, seated on chairs and on the floor, but enjoying their dinner just the same.

The good people of Clinton were asked to furnish the tables and so well did they respond that they nearly doubled the amount allotted to them. They are known for their generosity.

One speaker stated it would be impossible to sample all the different dishes, as there were at least 30 varieties, with everything well cooked, and artistically arranged. After the feasting much of the food was sold, but there still remained a good dinner for about 50 people the next day. The young ladies acted as waiters and saw that all were well served.

The program continued in the afternoon, with music, singing, etc. Among those who rendered solos were Mrs. Clara Anderson and Mr. Roy Robinson of Clinton, Miss Ella Thomas of Ogden, Miss Reta Sessions of Syracuse, and Miss Carrie Browning of Ogden as pianist.

The out of town guests were President Joseph F. Smith, John Henry Smith of the first presidency, David A. Smith of the presiding bishopric, and their wives of Salt Lake, Lewis W. Shurtliff and Charles F. Middleton of the Weber Stake presidency, and George McCune of the High Priests quorum with their wives, of Ogden, Joseph H. Grant, James A. Eldredge, Jesse M. Smith of the stake presidency of the Davis stake; Thos. J. Steed of the High Council, Bishop Holland of Pay and a number of others from Ogden.

The speakers were Pres. Joseph F. Smith, Pres. John Henry Smith, Pres. Joseph H. Grant and David A. Smith. All spoke words of encouragement and congratulated the people on their new meeting house.

All voted the day well spent. In the evening there was a dance at the hall where the crowd was large. The dance continued all night.

JURORS MUST BUY THEIR OWN BATHS

At their session today, the county commissioners refused to pay for the bathing of the jury in the Stick Vacos murder case. A claim for $3 alleged to be due for a bath taken by the jury was presented by the Ogden Canyon Sanitarium company, but the commissioners refused to pay it on the grounds that the time for filing the claim had expired. The bath was given the jury January 22, 1910, more than a year ago.

The same action was taken by the commissioners regarding the claim of Thomas Farr for witness fees in the matter of the Inquest of Parker E. Pratt, which was held January 7, 1910. It will be remembered that Mr. Farr was run down by an automobile at the intersection of a twenty-second street and Washington avenue and instantly killed.

County Attorney Jensen, Commissioner Moore and Recorder Wallace reported that they did not think the recording of the amended plat of the City View Addition was a matter to be considered by the board of commissioners, but that it should be recorded as other papers and that the regular fee for the same should be paid.

Attorney Jensen and Surveyor Craven were called upon to file their official bonds. It appearing that they had failed to do so.

J. C. Wilkins was committed to the county infirmary, it appearing that he has no means of support and is in need of care. The old gentleman states that if the county will take care of him until spring opens, he can get a job herding sheep and make his own living. He states that because of his advanced age, he cannot withstand the cold winter weather on the range.

"THE BARRIER"

OGDEN THEATRE, MARCH 1

Rex Beach's masterpiece, "The Barrier," will be presented at the opera house next Wednesday night by an excellent company of Eastern players. The stage version of the book ranks as the most accurate exponent of life in Alaska ever presented on the American stage. It is a play with the zest of life, the rigor of the game, the reckless daring of the adventurer, and has a rich vein of humor running through it all. This is the first transcontinental tour of "The Barrier," and it comes here direct from a year's run at the New Amsterdam theater, New York City. Miss Helen Barham, a well-known Eastern actress, has been specially engaged to play the character of "Neela," and that sterling favorite, Norval MacGregor, will be seen as "Captain Burrell." The supporting company is first class in all respects and a beautiful scenic production is carried.

"The Barrier" has for its plot the story of a hunted man whose daughter has stolen a claim which turns out rich, and relates the attempt to steal it from her. The intervention of her behalf by the United States army is in the person of a handsome captain, who eventually wins and marries her. The story in the telling is one of the most dramatic that has been staged in the past decade.

Seats, Tuesday, 10 a. m. Prices, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50.

HEAVY FINE AGAINST MUNSON

Daniel Munson was fined $10 or ten days, his son O. Munson $50 or fifty days and Jud Follier $10 or ten days in police court this morning, for fighting on a Washington avenue street car. The heavy fine was imposed upon the young Munson because it was brought out in the trial that he had been the instigator of the trouble.

The trial was vigorously prosecuted by the Ogden Rapid Transfer company which has avowed its intention to stop bravos and rowdism on local street cars. In the present instance it was shown that several women passengers were struck by the misdirected blows of the combatants and that language of the vilest kind was indulged in by the disturbers, without regard to the presence of lady passengers.

William Yerger, who had boarded the car with his wife, was the victim of the assault made by the two Munsons. Yerger, who was the principal witness for the city, stated that while the fight was in progress the conductor made an effort to stop the car and that the elder Munson seized the bell cord and slammed the car to go ahead. Follier, according to the witnesses, was drunk, and while he entered the car with the Munsons took little active part in the melee except to intrude his right eye in the way of one of the blows aimed at either one of the Munsons or at Yerger.

The fight occurred about 12:10 on the morning of February 19, while the Washington avenue car was going north. The fighting began while the car was nearing Twenty-first street and continued for several blocks. Yerger left the car with his wife near his home and, as he alighted from the car, he was struck by the elder Munson, who had followed him, and fell to the ground. Several of the witnesses swore that as soon as Yerger was knocked down, the younger Munson leaped upon him and proceeded to pummel him until others who had left the car dragged him away.

PINGREE FILES A DEMURRER

In the case of James A.
